Dear Craig Vishwesh,

Congratulations!

This is a formal notification that your abstract 2500760, entitled, Nutrient-Specific Inequality in Global Food Availability: Energy, Protein, and Fat Across 176 Countries, 2020–2023, has been selected for the following award(s) in association with the ASPEN 2027 Nutrition Science & Practice Conference.

International Abstract of Distinction Award

General ASPEN Award Information:
International Abstract Research Awards (Including Best International) – Honors international investigators who have submitted top-scoring original abstracts.

Abstracts of Distinction – Awarded to the top-scoring abstracts that display extraordinary originality, explore new aspects of a topic, and/or investigate unique aspects of a subject. This honor is given to the top 5% to 10% of submitted abstracts that are particularly innovative or unique.

Best of ASPEN Nutrition Science & Practice Conference - Awarded to the top-scoring abstracts (non-Vars candidates) in each of the primary categories presented at the conference. ASPEN's six abstract categories include Parenteral, Enteral, Malnutrition/Nutrition Assessment, Critical Care, GI, and Pediatric/Neonatal.

In addition, your abstract will be published in the JPEN online supplement.

ASPEN Nutrition Science & Practice Conference Details:
If you have not already done so, make your plans now to attend the conference. Please note that with the submission of an abstract you made a commitment to present if accepted and that failure to present and register for the meeting, if not justified, may jeopardize future acceptance of abstracts. Visit the conference webpage or type www.nutritioncare.org/conference/ directly into your internet browser for more information. Please note that early registration ends on November 18, 2026.

When You are Ready to Publish Your Manuscript:
Share your research with an even larger audience! Submit an article of your data to JPEN or NCP, which reaches an interprofessional group of colleagues, grant funders, academic leaders, and healthcare employers.

Thank you!

Best Regards,

Elizabeth Abram
